

Project ECHO Management of Opioid Use Disorder
Release and Copyright License for Collaborating Clinicians and Partners

Project ECHO Management of Opioid Use Disorder is a project of the University of North Dakota (UND) School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS) Center for Rural Health (CRH). The mission of Project ECHO is to develop the capacity to safely and effectively treat chronic, common, and complex diseases in rural and underserved areas, and to monitor outcomes of this treatment. In pursuit of this mission, Project ECHO faculty, staff, and partners have dedicated themselves to demonopolizing knowledge in order to expand access to best-practice medical care across the United States and globally.

It has been the practice of Project ECHO to record and archive ECHO clinics. All Project ECHO material (including but not limited to didactic content presented via ECHO clinics, curriculum, data tracking tools, evaluation tools and educational content created under the auspices of Project ECHO) is considered available to be used by Project ECHO Management of Opioid Use Disorder for the conduct of the ECHO project and shared with established replicating and community partners.

I hereby grant permission to the CRH at the UND SMHS acting through Project ECHO Management of Opioid Use Disorder to use my name, likeness, voice, image or performance in a motion picture, digital media, or all other media captured in connection with all Project ECHO activities, by any and all means, media, devices, process and technology.

I hereby release Project ECHO and its collective licensees (e.g. replicating partners) who show or distribute Project ECHO material from all claims except to the extent that ECHO uses the material for other than their intended educational use.

I affirm that to the best of my knowledge all material authorized, furnished and/or used by me in connection with Project ECHO is my own material OR material that I have authority to use for such purposes in accordance with UND policy and academic standards. I hereby give Project ECHO the authority to use and to allow others to use my copyrighted material in connection with Project ECHO activities, by any and all means, media, devices, processes, and technology.

I wish to collaborate with the Center for Rural Health/Project ECHO Management of Opioid Use Disorder and agree to the terms above:
