Texas State Legislature

Funding Source:
Colleges and universities on a individual basis

Description:
The Texas State Legislature passed a bill in 2001 allowing colleges and universities in Texas to charge resident tuition for non-resident RNs in postgraduate education programs preparing them to become nurse educators. Any costs associated with allowing non-residents resident tuition falls on the educational institutions themselves.

Outcome:
Texas nursing school enrollments have generally increased, no specific data as a result of this initiative are available.
