North Dakota Critical Access Hospitals

History

Jacobson Memorial Hospital Care Center (JMHCC) opened its doors, in March of 1977. The facility, offering both hospital and nursing home care, was built with a combination of FHA loan dollars, a Hill-Burton government grant, and gifts of cash, pledges, and memorials. The facility was named to honor Dr. M. S. Jacobson for his long term commitment, dedication, and support to health care services in the region. This hospital follows a history of community healthcare in Elgin beginning in 1915, as the Elgin Hospital from 1915 to 1948, then through Lorenzen Memorial Hospital from 1948 to 1977.

JMHCC provides comprehensive medical care with physician and mid-level medical providers and consulting/visiting medical providers. The not-for-profit healthcare corporation is governed by a local board of directors. JMHCC has a professional and support staff of approximately 120 full and part time employees. The hospital has 35 licensed beds for acute care or swing beds, and clinics in Elgin, Glen Ullin and Richardton. Patients are also served by the hospital's well-developed referral systems to nearby medical specialists.

Recreation

The city of Elgin is in southwestern North Dakota, 88 miles southwest of Bismarck. The JMHCC is the largest employer in the area, and one of the most important assets in the community. Along with the hospital, agricultural operations provide the economic base for Elgin.

Elgin has an indoor Olympic-sized pool, a nine-hole golf course, tennis courts, softball diamonds, a lighted football field, and rodeo facilities. The Grant County school system offers a comprehensive program for all students including foreign languages, advanced science, math electives, computer education programs, and special education services. Eighteen miles north on Highway 49, Heart Butte Dam and Lake Tschida offer swimming, boating, camping, and fishing. The Cannonball River runs just a few miles south of Elgin. Sheep Creek Dam, just seven miles south of Elgin, also provides excellent camping and fishing. The area has ideal terrain for cross country skiing, snowmobiling, hunting, and hiking. Pheasant, grouse, turkey, antelope, and deer abound in the area, as well as a variety of raptors, waterfowl, and songbirds.

This project is supported by the State Office of Rural Health grant at the Center for Rural Health, University of North Dakota School of Medicine & Health Sciences located in Grand Forks, North Dakota.
