North Dakota Critical Access Hospitals

History

In 1923, the Benedictine Sisters of Manitoba, Canada bought the residence of Mr. W.T. Noonan, the President of the North American Creameries, and established St. Anthony's Hospital. In 1937, the Sisters of Mercy of Valley City took over the hospital and named it Mercy Hospital. On September 22, 1950 the first Franciscan Sisters took over the operation of the hospital and named it St. Joseph's Hospital. In 1954 plans were made and construction began on Oakes Community Hospital with completion of the 36-bed hospital on October 14, 1956. In 1972, space was once again needed and an addition was built. Dedication of a new wing housing the laboratory, CT scanner, emergency rooms, outpatient services and lobby took place May 1, 1994.

In 2001, Oakes Community Hospital converted to a Critical Access Hospital with state certification. Recognizing the importance of maintaining holistic care, as well as the changes of healthcare in today's world, the Sisters of St. Francis transferred the sponsorship of the hospital to Catholic Health Initiatives. In 2005 Catholic Health Initiative announced that it would help the community build a new facility. The blessing of the site and ground breaking celebration was held on August 16, 2006. Clinics were opened in 2010 in Oakes and LaMoure. Dr Katie O'Brien-Paradis joined the Medical Staff in 2011 and is the current Chief of Staff. The Lamoure Clinic closed in 2012. To better identify with being part of the strong healthcare system of Catholic Health Initiatives, the hospital's name was changed in 2014 to CHI Oakes Hospital. The CHI Oakes Hospital is also served by physicians and allied health professional staff from the Sanford Clinic - Oakes and Coast to Coast Health Care Services.
