Who should attend? Physicians, Advanced Practice Providers, Nurses, Pharmacists, Allied Health Providers, & Health Profession Students

The objective of this program is to provide participants with current concepts in the assessment and treatment, as well as prevention of opioid addiction. It will address current guidelines for medication-assisted treatments in rural areas. Engage local and state (medical and non-medical) resources to work together to approach the opioid epidemic. Analyze ECHO as a cost-effective way to address opioid issues in a stigma-free community. Apply point of care and point of crisis treatment of OUD in the setting of incarceration.
