

INDIGENOUS HEALTH PH.D.

UND's doctoral program in Indigenous Health is the first of its kind in the United States or Canada. It will give you a deeper understanding of the unique health issues facing Indigenous populations. With its evidence-based approach to Indigenous health, the program prepares you to join the elite group of forward-thinking, culturally aware experts. We are setting new standards in the promotion of Indigenous Health worldwide.

Format: Online with two week-long sessions on-campus Estimated time to complete: 3-5 years Credit hours: 60

A multitude of job opportunities exist for graduates:

- Health Researcher
- Health Program Evaluator
- · Health Policy Analyst
- University or Tribal College Faculty
- Tribal Health Director
- Health Program Administrator
- Indigenous Health Consultant
- · Non-Profit Administrator
- Public Health Officer

Our dedicated faculty will help students find opportunities to present their work at national and international conferences. Students can choose either the applied or academic track and must complete a dissertation.

General Admission Requirements

- 1. Completion of the online application and payment of the application fee.
- 2. A master's degree or equivalent from an accredited college or university.
- 3. A graduate cumulative grade point average (GPA) of at least 3.00.
- 4. Applicants will have taken at least one 3-credit, graduate-level course in biostatistics and one in epidemiology within the past 5 years with a grade of "B" or better.
- 5. Language proficiency requirements as published in the graduate catalog.

Applicants are required to submit the following supporting documentation:

- 1. Three letters of recommendation
- 2. Curriculum vita
- 3. A written personal statement
- 4. A written research statement
- 5. Writing sample
- 6. Official post-secondary academic transcripts from all institutions attended.

Applications open May 1

December 1 – priority, February 1 – final For more information, visit med.UND.edu/indigenous-health